

The Courtyard Youth Arts Centre is hosting an amazing FREE! digital arts, performance and film project this October half term 2011.

The Tree of Light Olympic Project

This half term OYAP Trust will be hosting 3 workshops for young people aged 11+ to take part in the Tree of Light Olympic project. During 3 workshops they will work with environmental scientists and digital artists to make striking images, film and performance inspired by trees in Bicester.

The resulting artwork will form part of the creative process for next summers huge Tree of Light performances, involving more than 1,200 people across the region. The centrepiece will be a giant sculpted tree, glowing with LED lights powered largely by electricity generated by cyclists and rowers.

This is a unique opportunity to learn new skills, be inspired by science and art and be part of a once in a lifetime national project.

Workshops: Digital photography, film, performance, environmental art!
You will get a chance to try out all sorts of creative new things, work alongside professional artists, a tree specialist, meet new people and have a lot of fun.
